Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, DC, 20505

Dear sir

For your information I am enclosing copies of the correspondence which has been exchanged between [redacted] and myself.

STAT

If the attitude of [redacted] is an accurate indication, the Central Intelligence Agency is not so greatly in need of new personnel as I had been led to believe.

STAT

In any event he does little to encourage the impression that CIA is a pleasant organization in which to work.

Sincerely,

I don't like this correspondence. You will note the Congressional angle that has been introduced. Please get the Lieutenant mollified, have John Warner nail the correspondence in Senate and House, get down here and square him away, then please let me have a report in writing on all actions taken.
